

Experience with kHz SLR at Herstmonceux

Matthew Wilkinson et al, NSGF, UK

The NSGF now operates a kHz SLR system which is soon to become the primary system for observations. The experience that the facility gained during this development could be valuable to other stations planning a similar upgrade to high repetition rates. The presentation will highlight the issues that we came across and suggest solutions to the problem that have been overcome.